THE BOTANICAL AND AFFORESTA TION DEPARTMENT.

The following are extracts from the Report for 1887 of Mr. C. Ford. Superintendent of the Botanical and Afforestation Department: BOTANIC GARDENS.

The general condition of the Gardens is kept up to as high a standard as possible with the means at my disposal, but although the Colony experienced by the Government on the 19th compulsion. As the plants in the Gardens are now labelled to a sufficient extent to enable visitors to ascer tain the name of any tree, shrub, or plant which is cultivated in the Gardens. I would take this opportunity of advising would-be purchasers to make their choice of plants from an inspection of the large specimens throughout the Gardens, which show better what purposes the plants are than in former years. Status.—I regret to have to chronicle the loss of shrubs and trees of great beauty which had taken 20 years of fostering care to bring them to the condition they were in before their destruction in order to provide a site—which had been selected two or three years ago -- for the erection of the statue which was placed in the Gardens towards the close of the year. The Gardens have not been benefited by the change which was made in them, nor yet does it appear that the statue itself has obtained a position which is the hibition of such a fine and costly work of art. In view of these disadvantages it is to be hoped that the removal of the statue may receive some

I might here submit that the interests of the Gardens should have a strong claim to be represented by special professional judgment when plated. The site for the statue was selected by a body of gentlemen and approved by the Government without the knowledge of, or any 1eference for an opinion from, the Superintendent of the Gardens.

The facilities and accommodation not only for extending, but even for maintaining the collections of scientific dried plants are still lamentably deficient. We have now about reached the limit of possibility of progress unless the sugbe responded to. There are now large collections of plants put away which have been made, dried. and poisoned, and which cannot be mounted, labelled and incorporated with the general collections in enbinets until the additional accommodation for working at and storing the specimens s available.*

As much attention as possible has been given to the herbarium demands whenever a little time could be obtained between other work. A considerable number of plants have been poisoned and mounted by the clerk and office boy, and labelled and incorporated by myself, but there are large numbers which it has been impossible

A collection of nearly 2,000 named specimens of chiefly Asiatio plants have been procured by I purchase. Since they came into our possession they have all been poisoned to preserve them from damage or destruction by insects, and many of them have been mounted. Another large collection was obtained during a journey made by myself, with Chinese assistants, up the North and Lieuchan Rivers in the Kwangtung Province. Duplicates of all these have been sent to Kew Gardens. Broad-cast Sowing.—In addition to planti and rearing in situ some pieces of land wer perated on by sowing seeds broad-cast without any preparation of the ground. In certain places the method promises to give good results at a very small cost, as already stated in my report for last year. There is, however, a serious difficulty to con-

In such plantations, where the soil is somewhat better than the average soil, the trees have succeeded beyond my expectations, but where the shelter and soil is inferior the trees have made but little progress. The general results, however, were such as to lead me to continue the experiment: therefore about 12,000 trees were reared in the cursories for planting during the present season Pinus Massoniana.—A few pounds of seeds of this tree were procured from Japan, and sown in situ by the side of our native pine, but the seeds, unfortunately, germinated very badly probably owing to their not having been suff

PHE RECENT LOSS OF THE "SAN PABLO."

We learn from Californian papers to hand vesterday that an investigation has been held in San Francisco by Inspectors Talbot and Hillman on the loss of the O. & O. steamer San Pablo, which was wrecked off Turnabout on the 18th April, while en route from Yokohama to Hongkong. The Inspectors found that the ship's officers exerted themselves to the utmost, and are exonerated from blame. Their report is as

At 3:23 a.m. of that date (April 18th), during a very dense fog, the Son Publo, E. C. Reed commander, struck on a sunken rook near what is known as the Tan Group, and about ten miles northwest side of the entrance to Formosa

The fog had prevailed for several days, with only an occasional litting; there was a good departure taken at Yokosimo Island early April 16th, and from the evidence given in our investigation we find that every possible precaution was taken by Captain Reed to guard against danger while running in a thick fog. A good and efficient lookout was kept during the night. Captain Reed was in charge on deck with one of his officers, and soundings were repeatedly taken. It appears, however, that there was an unusually strong northwest current existing at the time. which carried the steamer nearly thirty miles to the north and west out of her course, and to Every possible means to save the San Pablo was devised by Captain Reed and his officers, o'clock in the morning of April 19th. The passengers, mail, and specie had been transferred the day previous to the steamer Puchili for Shanghai, where they arrived in safety. The officers and crew proceeded in the ship's boats to Turnabout Island, and subsequently arrived safely at the home port. San Francisco. The San Pablo was 4,064.46 tons gross, and belonged to the Pacific Improvement Company, and was valued at about $500,000. For the reasons before stated we cannot hold Captain Reed responsible for the loss of the San Pablo. The following certificate was given to Captain

Reed, master of the San Pable, by the Inspec-OFFICE OF U. S. INSPECTORS OF STRAM VESSELS San Francisco, June 19, 1888.

CAPTAIN E. C. REED. Master and Pilot of Steam Vessels, San Francisco.

SIR.—In the matter of the loss of the steamship San Publo, under your command, April 18th last, upon investigation thereof from testimony navigating said steamer carefully. We find that you took all possible precautions against danger while running in the thick fog, which had prevailed almost continuously for several days, up to the moment of the steamer striking the submerged rock, whereon she was lost April 18. 1888. We find that an unusual strong N.W. current carried you out of your course nearly thirty miles. We cannot, therefore, hold you responsible for the loss of the steamer San Publo, and you are hereby accordingly exonerated from blameinconnection therewith. Respectfully, Paris, 17th June. Most of the Paris papers regard Emperor William's orders to the army as having a warlike tone, contrasting singularly with the rescripts of Emperor Frederick. KOREA.

Sour, 19th June.

The French Legation is finally established in the capital of Korea. The arrival of the Minister was looked forward to with much interest. During the latter part of April and the beginning of May there was considerable excitement here in Soul over what may be called the religious question. The Government here pretends to be opposed to missionaries living and working for the spread of Christianity in the land, and yet there are a dozen French Jesuits here and in the country, and fifteen American missionaries. Their presence is not only known, but the object of their presence is known. The treaties are silent on the question of teaching Christianity.

The Catholic priests scoured an admirable site marriage will unite the Duchy of Saxe-Weimar in the southern part of the city where they be gan building a cathedral, or rather grading the hill for that purpose. This work has been going on for a year or more. This spring the Korean Government took notice of their doings, and objected to the erection of a cathedral or even. school at that place as it overlooked a royal temple. The matter was taken to the King, who very generously offered to pay back all the money they had expended on the grounds and to give them an equally large plot of ground in another part of the city, even allowing them to make the selection. For once the greed of the Jesuit got the better of his cunning. He demanded the old Palace grounds located just inside the north-west gate. This is a deserted place, but is used to raise mulberry trees for silk culture. It contains fifty or more acres of mission compound. But of course every one knew, the Jesnits included, that this ground > and the American missionaries were instructed not to teach Christianity. Two missionaries were on an evangelistic tour through the country, and were also notified of this edict, and returned home without finishing the trip they had proposed. The prompt acquiescence of the Protestant missionaries had a very salutary effect upon the Government, while the resistance and even defiance of the Jesuits have injured their cause not a little.

all religious teachings in school and chapel to

The religious excitement is over now, or at least it is swallowed up in another of even greater. magnitude. About a week ago reports were oil oulated on the streets that certain Koreans had Chinese Imperial Loan of 1884 B-5, per cent. kidnapped children and taken them off and sold stories of this kindamong an ignorant and excitable people, it has grown to alarming proportions. The officials are afraid of a mob, and the greatest prudence is necessary to keep the excited populace from laying violent hands upon persons who are not Koreans. The whole thing smells of China. Report has it that a Chinese tract on this subject is quietly circulated among the Koreans, and this of course only increases the excitement. The servants and coolies living near the foreigners are afraid to go any distance from home because of threats on their lives made continually. A little vigorous action on the part of the Government would bring the absurd rumours to a speedy termination. No danger is anticipated, and yet there is the uncertainty of what an excited people may or may not do. Since writing the above the talk and consequent excitement have subsided somewhat. This much, however, seems certain, that there is very little foundation for the injurious rumour, but that it is a political fabrication throughout. Believing this, and fearing the consequences might prove serious, three representatives of western nations have called for troops from men-of-war in Chemulpo. The American, Russian, and French Legations are now guarded by troops. The King has issued a proclamation to the effect that if children are missed from their homes, the parents must report to the police, and that every effort will be made to capture the thief; that all talk of foreigners killing children must cease; that if idlers are found spreading such reports they will be arrested. Three men are reported to have been arrested under this order, and will ! probably be put to the whipping block. The Royal edict and the presence of the troops have. had the desired effect, and the excitement may be said to be over. The danger is passed. The would-be disturbers of peace have failed. The King has shown that he has power in the country, and that he is not afraid to assert it. The Progressive party is gaining strength. Everybody is glad to see the bold stand taken in behalf of foreigners. The excitement of the last week has shown conclusively that foreigners cannot be driven from Kerea by the idle talk of ignorant or malicious men. The Japanese Legation was very active in its efforts to stop the rumours. In fact all the Legations were doing all in their power to avert the dangers of

Mr. Robert Jaffray, a former resident of Yokohama, died very suddenly on June 21st, of a sharp attack of dysentery. He was superintenagainst emigrating to London. This is due to dent of the Royal Farm a few miles from this city, and showed himself proficient in the agricultural line. He would have been able to give the Koreans a good idea of farming, as besides his work on the farm he was engaged teaching several students English in connection with The Bankruptcy Court has sanctioned the practical farming. The average Korean readily and ambition to adopt it. The Royal College has been in very successful operation for two years. Less than a month ago the students and teachers were called to the Royal Palace and were examined by His Majesty himself, the teachers of course giving such aid as was needed. I mention this as showing the school and the rapid opening of the country.-Japan Mail Correspondent
